

JUSTICE FOR JESSIE & ALL 457 VISA WORKERS

RALLY 11AM SAT AUG 3
12 HALL STREET MOONEE PONDS
@WORKPLACE RELATIONS MINISTER BILL SHORTEN'S OFFICE

Jessie Cayanan began work in Feb 2013 on a 457 visa. His boss, Glenroy Exhaust, demanded $520 a week in cash out of his wages, or he would be sent home. The financial stress, which included paying $129 a week to work-placement agents, left him depressed and suicidal.

Jessie quit his job in May after the thefts by his boss, and a workplace injury, being "hit with a metal cutter". If 457 workers lose their jobs, they have just 90 days to find another job, or they will be deported. This makes them dependent on their boss and vulnerable to exploitation in their first two years, before they are allowed to apply for permanent residency. It's hard to find new work on a 457 visa and Jessie will be deported in September if he doesn't find another job or the government doesn't intervene. Jessie should not be punished for reporting the extortion by his boss. Join our protest to demand

- * DON'T DEPORT JESSIE, GRANT HIM PERMANENT RESIDENCY
- * RIGHT TO PERMANENT RESIDENCY FOR ALL 457 WORKERS
- * STOP THE SCAPEGOATING OF 457 WORKERS
